

Insight for Microsoft Teams Calling and Meetings

Business challenge

As the way we work evolves, much of the workforce has become divided between remote and premise-based work. This shift has completely changed the landscape of collaboration. When it comes to delivering options for collaborative communication in the workplace, IT leaders now face a variety of evolving challenges, such as:

Promoting meeting equality and inclusivity for remote and on-premises employees

Ensuring easy workflow transitions between home and office locations

Creating simple, immersive experiences

Making work secure and manageable in any location
